Employment History

Present Employment

Private practice: Child custody evaluator, parenting instructor and therapist: Reunification, DV, Anger Management, Relationship Skills

January 2003 to present

Therapy: trauma and insight therapy. Assessing/treating parents, families, couples, children, and individuals in private, conjoint and group. Provide consultations and training of social workers and clinicians. Specialize in the origins and long-term effects of childhood experiences, especially attachment trauma; sexual, physical and emotional abuse; and domestic violence. Teach communication, conflict resolution, anger management and relationship skills; address "parenting disorders" and co-parenting. Specialize in "difficult children" and origins of anti-social behavior. Pioneering in addressing reunification issues with support from court and minor's counsel; address and revise the assumed roles of gatekeepers; assessing true risk; and teaching both parents the right and wrong of co-parenting; and training therapists an effective protocol for reunification. Coach social workers in discerning false child abuse reports, including parental alienation, versus risk and mistaken behaviors; counsel in surviving Children's Services and custody evaluations. Identify origins of extreme behaviors and disorders to prevent and facilitate healing. Provide consultations. Assess the best interest of children in custody disputes for the court, including home visits, document review, fact finding, interviews, testing, and report writing.
